Sin Is Real

The story is told of the man who had a picture of the leaning tower of Pisa over his desk and every morning was surprised to find it hanging crooked. He asked the cleaning woman if she was responsible and she replied: "Yes, I have to hang it crooked to make the tower hang straight."

There are many who imitate the cleaning woman by trying to make the crooked seem straight. This is especially true of those who refuse to face the reality of sin. No matter how airily we may talk of sin being a mere matter of subjective opinion, the fact remains that sin is something real and exists independently of what we choose to believe or disbelieve. Furthermore, despite all that skeptics may say, sin is not only real but takes an inexorable toll from the sinner.

If sin be a mere myth or just a theological theory, why do we turn with pity and disgust from those whose faces are etched with depravity, whose speech is tainted with blasphemy and obscenity, who even boast of the shameful deeds they have committed?

It may be we make a distinction between outright immorality and the "lesser sins" which we ourselves are prone to commit at times. It must be remembered, however, that big sins frequently begin with little sins. The gangster who dies in the electric chair is often the wayward boy who stole fruit from the peddler's cart; the convicted perjurer is the boy who thought that a lie now and then "does nobody any harm."

We condemn sin for two reasons: it offends God and it degrades—and may even destroy—our souls. Few men live without offending God at one time or another, but we are always assured of being spiritually restored if we repent and try to overcome our weaknesses. But for the man who pretends to deny the existence of sin—who tries to make the crooked seem straight—there can only be a prayer that he may discover his folly before it is too late.

Sunday School Lesson

Paul Trains for His Life Work. Scriptures: Acts, 9:15-22; 11:25-26 Galatians 1:17-24

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Paul was not long in finding Christian friends, though at first the disciples feared him, as well they might in view of his so recent persecuting zeal against them.

Ananias, a saintly Christian in Damascus (not the notorious liar of Acts 5), who was prepared for Paul's coming in a vision, though he at first doubted that so terrible a persecutor could so suddenly have become a disciple, welcomed Paul as a Christian brother and pronounced the blessing that restored to Paul his eyesight.

The disciples at Jerusalem were somewhat harder to convince, as they had suffered more from the persecutor's fury. But Barnabas, the rich disciple who had sold all and given all for the Christian cause, vouched for Paul, relating how he had been converted and how boldly Paul had proclaimed Christ among the Jews at Damascus.

It was not unnatural that Paul's former associates in his persecuting days should have been aroused to anger at his defection. So intense was their fury and purpose to kill him that Paul's new-found Christian friends had to effect his escape, letting him down in a basket from the walls of the city.

It was thus that he made his way to Jerusalem and here also he proclaimed boldly his new faith in the Lord Jesus. But he did not stay long in Jerusalem and his public preaching was abated while he sought fuller preparation for his life mission.

Scant attention has been paid to what have been called "Paul's silent years," but Paul underwent years of meditation before he embarked upon his missionary career. Just what Paul did during his period of silence—and how many years it lasted—is not clear.

It is difficult to think of a man of Paul's intensity as being in retreat and probably those years were spent in pursuing his own course, studying, praying, conversing with others, feeling his way into the richness and fullness of his missionary activity, waiting for the Master's call and guidance.

There is a lesson for us all in the fact that so great and wise a man as Paul should need preparation. Zeal, even in a Paul-like man, is not enough.

If we would do great work for God, zeal must be fortified with knowledge and discipline. The church has suffered greatly from those who have never learned that lesson.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"DOCTRINE OF ATONEMENT" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 20, 1946. Golden Text: II Corinthians 5:18.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Teach me thy way, O Lord: I will walk in thy truth; unite my heart to fear thy name." (Psalms 11:1). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "ATONEMENT is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage." (p. 15).

Made Happy By Package From Club at Maplewood

Mrs. James Ellis, Route 5, president of the Maplewood Better Homes club, received the following letter from B. Wattenyne, Brussels, in appreciation of a package sent to her sister in Belgium. The letter follows:

"Dear Mrs. Ellis: On behalf of my sister I here-with wish to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the big surprise you made her by mailing a parcel for her family. It was a grand day when it arrived and God may refund your charity. All the children and the parents are praying every day for your happiness."

"Thanks to God and our Allies, we are coming little by little to normal life, although the cost of it is soaring constantly and salaries are so low, that it is an ever-lasting problem to match prices with wages. Practically every basic item has reached twice the price of before, even when rationed. Textiles are up to ten times as much as before 1940, whereas salaries keep drastically ceiled; or there comes a strike and again fares for trains or street cars go up, as it has just occurred with our trolleys, so this of course, as it is for all working people, will be a new gap in the budget, fares have again been raising from 1.50 to 2.00 frs."

Still we are very happy, after the ordeal we went through, to feel free from occupation and pray God every day to be spared from another war, in our little country just one atomic bomb would tear it up from north to south and west to east."

"We all here are full of fear for another clash and there are lots of young people making for South-America, where as it seems there is plenty of space for daring people. Why should I rather in South America there is rather a lack of people to till the soil. If people had been free of settling down in those countries we surely would not have had two wars in one generation, with a third ahead, if in Germany people go on stream-ing west chased by the Russians or fleeing east. To us here in Belgium and France that wandering is of no good omen and we all wish that Mr. Byrnes and the greedy Mr. Molotov may at end come to an agreement, so that peace may be ensured in this so sadly leaped up Europe.

"All the same, your parcel was very very welcome and I feel very thankful as well as my sister and the whole family for your kind gesture. It was thoroughly enjoyed."

"If it ever occurred to you to plan a journey to Belgium I am at your entire disposal to help you and lead you sightseeing. Even without knowing French, as I speak fluently your language, we could understand each other."

"With respect to this humble underwriter, she is a secretary, single, working in day time and part-time at night to make a few hundreds more than her regular salary and helping her sister where she can. She is deeply interested in friendships all over the world, has some in Spain, in France, in Panama City, with whom she corresponds and she finds that there is nothing more worthwhile in life than real Christian charity be it material or moral."

"By closing this letter let me thank you again and wish you thorough happiness with a long live the United States."

"Yours very truly, Signed: B. Wattenyne."

Want Price Control Lifted on Wheat, Flour

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—(P)—Milling industry Thursday called upon Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to lift price controls from wheat flour, semolina and farina, declaring supplies are ample and that it is "unreasonable" to control these products while wheat goes uncontrolled. The request was made at a hearing before representatives of Anderson on the industry's appeal from recent action of administrator Robert H. Shields of the department's production and marketing administration. Shields denied a decontrol petition.

Under the price control extension act, the industry can appeal to the three-man price decontrol board should the plea be denied again by Anderson. The secretary has fifteen days in which to announce his decision.

Payments to Jobless Less

September Total In the Sedalia Area $10,221

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—(P)—Continuing the downward trend evidenced in August, unemployment compensation payments under the Missouri Law dropped $229,000 in September, the Division of Employment Security announced today.

Last month $1,161,143 was paid, with $91,000 of this amount going to persons who had acquired wage credits in Missouri but who are now living in other states.

In August, payments had decreased $340,000, making the total two-month decline $569,000.

These payments were exclusive of Federal readjustment allowances paid veterans.

Of the persons receiving payments in September, 44 per cent were women. The average weekly amount for all individual claims was $16.07.

However, the approximate 22,000 persons paid last month represented only three per cent of almost 700,000 workers currently "covered" by the Unemployment Compensation Law in this state.

In the area served by the Sedalia office of the Division of Employment Security, 703 weeks of compensation totaling $10,221 were paid in September, with women receiving 384 weeks' payment.

Find Scratch on Oil Painting of Truman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(P)—An inch-and-a-half long scratch today marred an oil painting of President Truman in the national museum part of the Smithsonian group.

Officials said the scratch, on the left cheek of the president's portrait, was noticed Tuesday morning. They theorized it might have been caused by a careless workman or conceivably by a vandal.

The painting is the property of John Slavin, who painted it, and has been on exhibition about two weeks.

UAW to Reopen Wage Contracts

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—(P)—Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO Automobile Workers union, announced here today that wage contracts covering more than 400,000 workers in the auto industry would be reopened within the next 60 days.

Exact wage demands will not be disclosed, he said, until approved by CIO President Philip Murray, who will arrive here tomorrow to sit in with the Auto Workers International executive board.

Reuther's announcement followed action by a Cleveland local which asked the board to negotiate new wage agreements containing cost-of-living wage bonuses, a guaranteed weekly wage and a management financial pension plan.

Prison Term is Given Strangler

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(P)—Thomas Smith, 31-year-old British army sergeant, who strangled his wife's paramour in the gleam of a flashlight held by one of his two children, was convicted of manslaughter today and sentenced to five years in prison.

The jury took only 15 minutes to decide that Smith, who had returned from military service in India to try to break up his wife's association with his rival, Herbert Joyce, was innocent of murder.

Evidence showed that the two men fought in Mrs. Smith's bedroom at night, and that while the terrified nine-year-old boy clutched the flashlight, his brother, four years younger, tried to help the mother put an end to the fight.

Wants Supervision Over Exchanges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(P)—Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) said today that when Congress convenes he will introduce legislation for strict federal supervision of all commodity exchanges, commission houses and offices, and their personnel.

In a statement, Thomas pointed to the recent break in cotton prices as indicating a need for closer regulation of the exchanges.

He had announced earlier that the senate agriculture committee, of which he is chairman, is investigating reports that the price break was due to an organized "bear raid."

Announcing his plans for legislation, Thomas told reporters he has information that "one commission house proposed to a client that a bear raid on cotton was contemplated and that if the client would put up a half million dollars, the firm would practically guarantee a profit of $5,000,000."

Socialist Party Denied Radio Time

Brains of the Executed Men Not Examined

Nazis scattered to the winds, it became apparent here that the decision to cremate the executed men, together with that of Goering, was made only a short time before Wednesday morning's hangings, because officials in Nuremberg were preparing as recently as last Thursday for ordinary, but extraordinary secret burials.

Prison officials threw Nuremberg jail open to all the press for the first time today and showed correspondents how the condemned Nazis walked approximately 70 steps from their cells to the gallows.

The death route led from the cells 45 paces to the exit door, down a flight of 13 steps, through a wooden door and into the open air.

Cells the men occupied still were off limits to correspondents on the tour. The number five cell where Goering took his life was the only one, however, which had an individual guard before it. This was blocked off pending completion of the investigation into how Goering got the poison vial.

The execution chamber today exuded the pungent odor of gallons of disinfectant used to remove all traces of the hangings. Starnes said blotches on the floor were from oil. A considerable quantity of oil was used to guarantee the traps operating without a hitch.

"There has been nothing but oil on this floor," Starnes asserted, "and as far as I know there never was anything more than oil on it."

Clothing in Laundry
A few scattered articles of clothing of the condemned men neatly laundered lay in the prison laundry—their last mute effects.

Hymn books the men used still lay in the tiny chapel fashioned from two cells, an altar at one end and a big crucifix wooden cross nailed to the wall at the other. There was a little foot pump organ, but Captain Starnes refused to say who played it.

In that chapel 13 Protestants prayed together, Goering in the front row leading the singing. The Catholics attended mass there, too. Two German doctors were on duty in the dispensary ready for any emergency with the seven Nazis sentenced to long prison terms. Rudolf Hess and Constantin Von Neurath were visible through portals in their cell doors, both looking weary and uninterested in anything going on outside.

Critical On Guards
LONDON, Oct. 18.—(P)—The Communist Daily Worker caustically criticized American guards at Nuremberg today and observed that "if Goering's guard had been Russian, he would not have got away with cyanide."

Walter Holmes, writing in the paper's column, "A Worker's Notebook," said:

"One always had the impression that the 'security' set-up at Nuremberg, where show, was vulnerable."

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(P)—American military government headquarters said today the official photographs taken at the execution of 10 Nazi war criminals in Nuremberg Wednesday will be reviewed by the Allied Control Council Monday to decide whether any shall be released for publication.

It had been expected that the four-power council's coordinating committee would preview the pictures in its meeting yesterday, but it passed them on to the council for decision.

Reports from Nuremberg Wednesday said the official army photographer took only pictures of the corpses after they had been cut down from the gallows, two photographs being made of each, one with the body clothed and the other with the corpse unclothed.

Previous indications have been that the pictures—labeled top secret—were to be filed for historical and record purposes only.

Gen. Eisenhower Is Returning

FRANKFURT, Oct. 18.—(P)—Gen. Eisenhower left by plane for Washington early today, after completing an inspection tour of the European theater.

Before he boarded his plane at Rheinfelden airport, near Frankfurt, Eisenhower told newsmen he was impressed with the "tremendous progress" which had been made in achieving allied occupation objectives.

Eisenhower's plane took off at 8 a. m. (1 a. m. CST) and will go directly to the United States.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, European theater commander, escorted the five-star general to the airport, where Eisenhower talked briefly with correspondents.

Praising the progress of the American occupation of Germany, Eisenhower declared:

"I was impressed at the high morale and discipline of soldiers over here." He said morale had improved greatly.

In the Trieste area, which he inspected last, the chief of staff said he encountered "no trouble."

United States and Yugoslav troops along the Morgan line "all seemed to get along," he said.

More Meat in Months Ahead

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(P)—The American Meat Institute, in newspaper advertisements throughout the country, today urged meat consumers:

"Don't insist on only the fanciest kinds and cuts.

Shop around for the best buys in meat. There is as much good nutrition in a savory steak as there is in a fancy porterhouse.

"Meat supplies now are at a record low," the institute said. "Supply lines are empty. People who haven't had much meat lately, want it. But it will take time to restore meat to retail counters.

"When there is little meat and everybody wants it, the price is bound to rise. But more meat is coming in the months ahead and as supplies increase and approach the demand, the price is bound to level off."

Loot Duchess of Windsor's $1,000,000 Jewel Collection

By Glenn Williams

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(P)—London police combing night clubs last night for a trace of expert thieves who climbed a drainpipe into the Duchess of Windsor's country apartment, looted a "considerable portion" of her glittering $1,000,000 Jewel collection and left part of it scattered on a nearby golf course.

A friend of the Duke of Windsor and his American-born wife said from $30,000 to $100,000 worth of rich gems were taken late Wednesday from the second story boudoir at Ednam Lodge where the ducal couple were guests of the Bankers and International Industrialist, Earl of Dudley.

Jewels Are Insured
Exchange Telegraph agency said, however, it understood the value of the stolen gems was $800,000 and that $120,000 had been recovered. The Duke's friend said all the stolen jewels were insured.

Detectives announcing the recovery of a "certain amount" of the rich haul, said the loot was found in a gladstone bag on the Earl's golf course overlooked by the Duchess' boudoir window. Other pieces of the sparkling array were scattered in the glass, the detectives said.

While Scotland's Yard's sleuths began a checkup of all known upper crust criminals in England who might have participated in the daring raid on the former king of England's apartment, the detectives cleared up one point of mystery in the case.

They said the thief or thieves had climbed a drain pipe and entered the Duchess' room by a window. Previously there had been speculation that a presentable thief might have walked right in the front door under the noses of a special detachment of Scotland yard men detailed to guard the premises since the Duke and his wife arrived at the estate near London last Friday.

The detectives also said a large automobile with a number of men inside had been seen in recent nights near the Earl's Sunningdale Estate where the ducal couple are staying.

Her Entree Collection
That the thief or thieves were looking for a large take was indicated by a report that the Duchess had brought her entire $1,000,000 collection with her when she came from France. She was said, however, to have put some of it in a safety deposit box.

Tonight the first detailed account came from an unidentified friend of the former king who was quoted by the press association.

This friend said the robbery took place at dusk Wednesday while the Duke and Duchess were on their way home from London where the Duke paid a solitary call on his brother, King George, at Buckingham Palace.

Servants At Tea
"The servants were at tea and no one heard anything," the friend said. "The Duke's dog which was in the house did not bark."

"It was the Duchess' maid who discovered the loss when she went to the Duchess' room prior to her return home."

"Of course the Duke and Duchess were told immediately when they reached home."

The friend said the Duke, after a hectic search of the house, called police. The friend added that a full list of the missing jewels had been prepared and put in the hands of assessors.

The friend added that the robbery appeared to have been "carefully planned" and that a mist aided the getaway. It gets started at 5 p. m. in London at this time of the year.

Among the Duchess' jewels was a gift from the Duke, a diamond studded platinum tiara which she wore on her wedding day, and complete sets of such dazlers as blue sapphires, diamonds, rubies and emeralds.

Shoulder Arms For Pheasants

MINOT, N. D., Oct. 13—(P)—Six a. m. today was H hour for the military men of five nations who shouldered arms for a two-day campaign against the Chinese ringneck pheasants which abound in the Dakota brushland.
Guests of the Minot Junior Chamber of Commerce for the hunt, members of the UN Military Commission representing China, France, Russia, Great Britain and the U. S. arrived here by plane late Thursday and were feted at a dinner.
Deployed, three officers to an auto piloted by a driver-guide, the dozen car cavalcade left this morning for the Knife river valley, 70 miles southwest of here where, after hunting today, they will spend the night as guests of the Hazen, N. D. Community club.
The braid-bedecked officers looked forward eagerly to the trip which, which furnished last night's chief conversation piece. Lt. Gen. A. R. Sharapov of the Soviet Air Force expressed himself as much relieved when informed that pheasants were both larger and slower in flight than the ducks he said he had hunted in Russia.

Forecasts on Football Winners For the Weekend Given

By Harold Claassen
NEW YORK, Oct. 18—(P)—A week ago this football forecaster had the nerve to pick Michigan as the winner over Army and both he and the Wolverines regretted it.
This week Army is selected as the winner over Columbia's unbeaten forces but the score won't compare in anyway with the 54 to 0 pasting the cadets handed the war-weakened Lions in 1943, their last meeting, when Glenn Davis made his New York debut.
Both teams supposedly have line weaknesses but Army is picked in the belief that the Cadets can apply the more pressure for the longer time.
Texas over Arkansas: Clyde (Smackover) Scott is a questionable starter for the Razorbacks because of a hip injury, virtually ruining the hopes of Coach John Barnhill for an upset triumph over the Longhorns. Texas is battered, too, but not enough to lose, Texas.
Tennessee over Alabama: The Vols insist their line is the best ever to wear the Tennessee uniform. Harry Gilmer to keep Alabama in striking distance, however, Tennessee.
Michigan over Northwestern: The Wolverine won't find Frank Aschenbrenner as fleet as Army's Glenn Davis and that will be a relief. It will be a torrid afternoon for Michigan, but they should win.
UCLA over California: When a pre-war all-America end is only a reserve, the team must be good. Therefore, UCLA.
Georgia over Oklahoma A&M: Trippi is healthy and sound, Fenimore is battered and worn. Georgia.
Illinois over Wisconsin: Granted that the Illinois players may not all be thinking of football, they still appear to have enough concentration to subdue the Badgers, Illinois.
Indiana over Iowa: It is the Hoosier homecoming and the old grads will expect to see Ben Roldmond do some real passing. He probably will for the discomfort of all Hawkeyes.
North Carolina over Navy: The Tarheels have never scored on Navy in their series of games. Tomorrow they will score enough to win.

Kentucky over Vanderbilt: And Vanderbilt's goal line hasn't been crossed this year, a statement that won't hold true by nightfall Saturday.
Pennsylvania over Virginia: Neither team has been beaten this year but if Minisi and Allen should tire, the Penn coach could use any of his 24 reserve backs. The manpower will tell. Pennsylvania.
Tulsa over Detroit: The Oklahomans have been overshadowed this year though their record is good and tonight is their chance to jump into the limelight.
Skipping over the remainder of the chalkline in a hurry:
Friday Night:
Temple over West Virginia, Virginia Tech over Maryland.
Saturday
East: Bucknell over Buffalo, Penn State over Michigan State, Pittsburgh over Marquette, Yale over Cornell, Harvard over Coast Guard, Colgate over Kings Point, Rutgers over Princeton, St. Mary's over Fordham, Holy Cross over Syracuse, Dartmouth over Brown, Villanova over Georgetown (Sunday).

Midwest: Ohio State over Purdue, Minnesota over Wyoming, Kansas over Nebraska, Missouri over Iowa State, Oklahoma over Kansas State, Drake over St. Louis, Cincinnati over Ohio University.
South: Mississippi State over San Francisco, Miami, Fla., over Florida, Louisiana State over Georgia Tech, Tulane over Auburn, VMI over Davidson, Duke over Richmond, George Washington over Wayne, North Carolina State over Wake Forest, Furman over The Citadel, William and Mary over Washington and Lee.
Southwest: Rice over Southern Methodist, Texas A&M over Texas Christian, Texas Tech over Baylor, West Texas State over Texas Mines.

Far West: Hardin-Simmons over New Mexico, Arizona over the College of Pacific, New Mexico A&M over Arizona (Flagstaff) State, Utah over Denver, Colorado over Brigham Young, Utah State over Colorado Aggies, Colorado College over Bradley, Southern California over Washington, Oregon over Washington State, Stanford over Santa Clara, Nevada over San Diego State.

Houston ever saw. They'll plan it tomorrow when the Chamber of Commerce athletic committee, of which Dyer is a long-time member, gets together.
Dyer, who President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas league, says is one of the best-known and best liked men in this state, is accustomed to such things. In 1939 they had an Eddie Dyer night at the local Texas league ball park. They gave Dyer a silver service on which was inscribed "To a left-handed who thinks right."

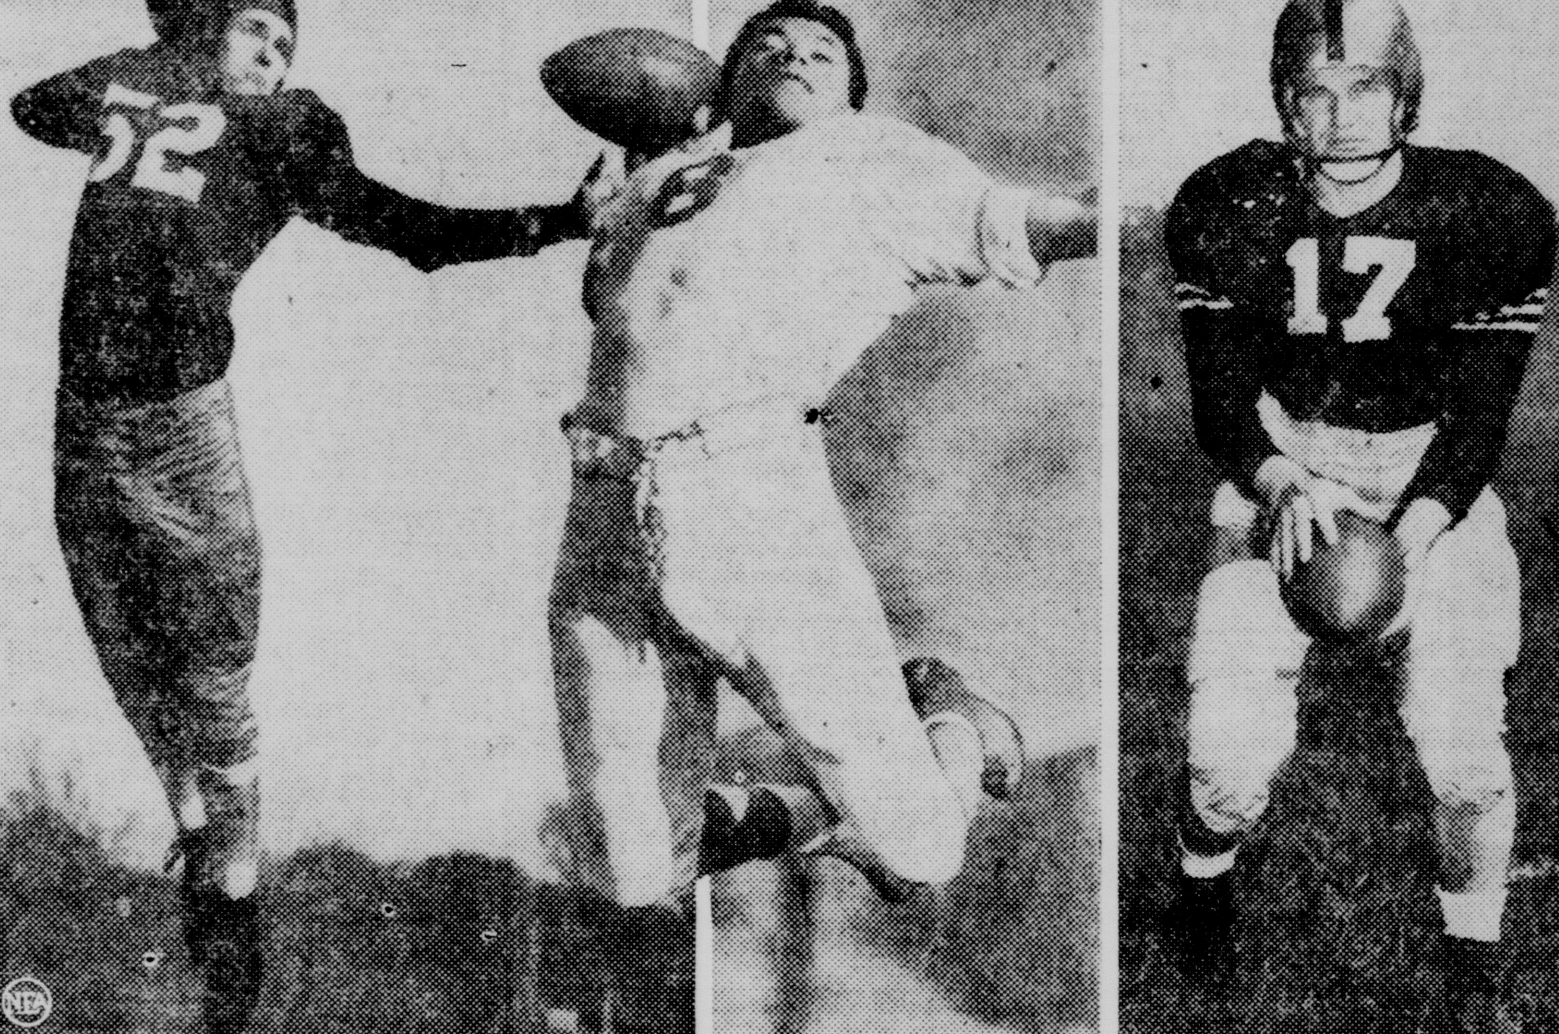

Eddie never let 'em down. When he came out of baseball retirement and gave up a top job in the oil business to manage the Cardinals this year, he said simply that "I'm going to manage the Cards just like I did the Houston Buffs—we're going to work hard and we're going to hustle." That was enough for Houston. The folks here knew if he had a big league team hustling and playing as he did the Buffs he'd come through.

Dyer arrived in Houston at 2 p. m. (CST) to be greeted by a group of personal friends and to face a long list of parties and receptions in addition to the testimonial dinner.
"To heck with baseball—how do the Rice Owls look?" was his remark upon arrival.
He had nothing but praise for the hustle of his Cardinals who came back time and again to win the National league pennant and then beat the Boston Red Sox in the world series, after rating as the decided underdogs.

Among the first of the plans of his busy weekend is to attempt to fly to Austin for the Texas-Arkansas football game Saturday and get back in time to see the Rice-Southern Methodist game here Saturday night.

The only regret is that Eddie isn't a native of Houston. He was born in Morgan City, La., but Houston has been his home most of his 45 years.
No special celebration was held upon Eddie's arrival today but it was just the calm before the storm. They're going to give him the all-fired testimonial dinner

Pitchers Exit, Tossers Enter

With the World Series out of the way and star pitchers putting their arms in cotton batting for the winter, football tossers take undivided limelight. Three ace passers who will operate in next Saturday's games are, left to right, Harry Gilmer, Alabama; Herman Wedemeyer, St. Mary's, and Arnold Tucker, Army.

his seventh straight and boosted his earnings past the $100,000 mark.
Ten Years Ago—Associated Press poll listed top college football teams of country as Minnesota, Duke, Army, Northwestern, Purdue, Southern California, Notre Dame, Washington, Pittsburgh, Yale.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18—(P)—Earl Blaik still is meaning about the shortage of reserves on his Army football team when he insists the regulars will have to play most of the game against Columbia tomorrow. "Maybe he's right, but let's take a look at some of those 'untried' players who are listed as third and fourth stringers."
Tackle Bert Alon and Bennie Davis attended Georgia Tech before going to West Point and Russ Robelstein, whose brother plays for the pro Giants, was well liked at Tennessee; sub-center Bill Voeman, came from the Texas Aggies, who'd like to have him back; so did guard Milton Rout, a second-year Army man. . . . In the backfield there's Charlie Gabriel, whose coach at Catawba College raised an awful fuss when he heard Charlie was headed for West Point. Another is Rudy Cosentino, a small-scale Doc Blanchard who was varsity fullback during his freshman year at Syracuse and who was highly regarded there. . . . Chances are that these guys won't even get into a major game this season, so the boys ahead of them must be better than fair.

Brecheen to Visit In McAlester

MCALISTER, Okla., Oct. 17—(P)—Harry "The Cat" Brecheen, 29, who won three world series games for the champion St. Louis Cardinals, was expected to arrive here for a visit tonight or tomorrow morning, his mother, Mrs. Tom Brecheen, said today.
Mrs. Brecheen said the pitcher told her in a telephone call that he probably would go pheasant hunting, presumably in the northern United States, after his visit here.
Brecheen's parents moved here two years ago from Ada, Okla.

Shade of Sycamore

By PERCY MARKS Author of "The Plastic Age" "A Tree Grown Straight" Etc.
© by Percy Marks: Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Gayle, daughter of a college professor, has just become engaged to handsome Bruce Bartlett, famous athlete and scion of wealth. Visiting his home and parents for the first time, she is frightened by the splendor in which they live. She is further dismayed when she learns that the newspapers notified she promises Gayle the help of her secretary, Miss Holland.

XII
BART and Gayle left Sycamore a little after 4 o'clock. It was Bart's plan to drive her back to New Haven, but Gayle was insistent that he put her on a train in New York. Finally he agreed on condition that she have dinner with him before she took the train and it was almost midnight by the time she got home.
Rose was asleep when she entered the apartment, and when she awoke the next morning, Rose had already gone.
Gayle was glad. There was much she wanted to tell Rose, but now she wanted to be alone. There was a letter, a very long letter, that had to be written at once to her mother, and she felt that she must be entirely by herself when she wrote it. An hour before she had left Sycamore, Miss Holland had given her the announcements to the newspapers. "It seemed simplest to me," the little woman had said, "just to type them out. The envelopes are addressed. All your mother will have to do is mail them. I think I'd better order the formal announcements too. It is late, but they will do them almost overnight for Mrs. Bartlett. I'll address those for Mr. Bruce's friends before I send them on to your mother. Then you'll have nothing but your own to attend to."
"You'll send the bill too?" Gayle had asked, grateful but ready to be offended.
"Oh yes. Don't you think that is the best plan?"

"Much the best. You're very kind to think of it. Thanks very much."
Well, Miss Holland had made everything just as simple as possible; that was sure. Social secretaries obviously had their uses. All the same, there was a lot to be explained. Just the thought of publicity would, Gayle knew, appall her parents. Outside of the local newspaper, the Kent name had never appeared in print except in learned journals. Suppose reporters came around. Gayle shivered. "They'll just hate it..."

SHE had a long hot bath and lingered over her breakfast. She washed the dishes, made her bed and Rose's, and then went to the living room prepared to write the letter; but she noticed that the drawing of Bart was still on the easel, and she paused to look at it. What a brilliant job it was—just brilliant! Rose had certainly been at the top of her form, at her very best, and her best was wonderful. Just the same... Just the same... Well, just the same, Gayle wasn't sure she liked that picture. There was something about it that made her uncomfortable. It was a perfect likeness of Bart—but what in the world was it that upset her? It wasn't as if Rose had made him look mean or sour or anything like that. She couldn't have given him a pleasant expression, and that little smile just breaking at his lips was a fully characteristic. She'd caught every bit of his little boy charm.
There! Now she knew! The face looked so immature; that's what she didn't like. It didn't look like a man at all; it looked like a kid about fourteen years old. And there was something else, too—yes, there was... a kind of arrogance in the tilt of the head; and there was a suggestion of petulance too around the lips.
"She's made him look like a spoiled brat," Gayle thought indignantly.

LATE in the afternoon Rose returned. "Hi," she said, dropping into a chair. "Giving up art for Paradise?"
"Not by a long shot," Gayle replied. "I just felt like taking a day off."
Rose lit a cigarette, inhaled, and then blew long streams of smoke out of her nostrils. "Well, how did it go?"
"I'll tell you all about it at supper," Gayle said, "but right now I've got a bone to pick with you. I've been waiting all day long to pick it, too." She pointed toward the drawing on the easel, and her lips grew tight in indignation. "I looked at that a long time this morning, and I saw what you did. That was a dirty trick."
Rose crushed her cigarette in an ash tray, growled at dawn, and then asked, "Dirty trick? What are you talking about? That's one heck of a good job."
"It's a libel, and you know it is. You meant it to be."
"What's libelous about it?"
"You've made him look like a little boy. You've made him look petulant and stuck-up. You know you have." She looked around for her purse, found it, then snapped back the zipper with trembling fingers and fumbled among the clutter of small articles until she found Bart's check.
"Here," she said, holding out the check to Rose. "Look what he sent you. He would have made it five times as much if I'd let him. I hope his generosity gives you ashamed. It ought to, anyway."
Rose accepted the check, read the amount, and dropped it on the table beside her. Her pale eyebrows lifted in amusement. "Generosity? Oh come off, Gayle. There's no generosity in writing a figure on a piece of green paper. He didn't earn the money. He won't have to give up anything because he's spent it. And I'll tell you something else: that's one heck of a good picture. It's worth anybody's hundred bucks."

British Hold High Esteem For General Eisenhower

By Russell Landstrom
(For Hal Boyle)

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(P)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower's recent triumphant return to the United Kingdom afforded conclusive proof of the unshaken affectionate esteem in which he is held by the British people.

No precedent existed for such an unqualified lionizing of an American visitor by all classes of the king's subjects.

Colorful civic and academic ceremonies which made Eisenhower an honorary doctor of laws at the University of Edinburgh and at Cambridge and a freeman of the Scottish capital and of the ancient burgh of Maybole, coveted distinctions though they are, merely were the formal manifestations of a regard expressed most significantly on the sidelines.

The measure of popular feeling was found in what people said to one another as they awaited a glimpse of the general and in comment on the street, in the subways and buses and of course, in the pubs.

Typical was a barmaid's remark: "No matter what we may think about some of the other Americans, nobody can say anything but the best about Ike."

Disappointment was keen when he deprecated rumors that he might succeed W. Averell Harriman as U. S. ambassador to Great Britain.

"No American visiting this country has had his unfailing gift for saying the right thing at the right time with such faultless taste," one woman novelist observed.

"Ike is worth the whole lot of professional diplomats," said a major of artillery.

What is astonishing, though, is the way he has endeared himself even to the flip and frivolous fledglings. Movie-struck girls made him their hero, too, placing him only a cut or two below Laurence Olivier and Humphrey Bogart, and that is idolatry indeed.

When the general landed at Prestwick, crowds of stenographers, telephonists, waitresses, hostesses and others surged toward his plane. The WAAFS on duty would have been more flustered only if the visitor had been Tyrone Power or Bob Hope. Children piled into city streets, waving small U. S. flags and yelling "Ike."

Nothing cracked Eisenhower's good humor, neither rain nor cold, the meals he missed, the delays in some of the rituals, the impetuous adulators nor pointed questions fired at him by news writers. Asked at press conference such personal questions as why he didn't wear more of the medals and ribbons to which he was entitled, he dismissed the subject with an airy, disarming pleasantry. Good humor was the keynote of every conference.

Members of the royal family made no bones about their delight in entertaining him and his family. They found him charming and sharp of wit. Queen Mother Mary, herself as direct as a machinegun burst, was taken especially with his forthrightness.

From the royal menage right down to the scullery help, fish peddlers and scrub women, Ike really rates, and now that he has a home in Ayreshire's Culzean castle to come to whenever he wants, a lot of people feel that he is an ex-officio citizen who can throw just about as much weight in empire councils as Canada, say, or Australia.

Church Activities

The homemaker's class of the East Sedalia Baptist church met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Harold Paul, 1100 South Osage avenue.

During the business meeting the class officers for the coming year were installed by J. F. Kirkhart, adult superintendent of the church.

A mask party was held after the business session and games were played and refreshments served. The assistant hostess was Mr. John Rush.

Meting Out Justice On Nazi "Malefactors"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(P)—Pres. Truman declared Thursday that the task of meting out justice to Nazi "malefactors" is not finished—that guilty industrialists, diplomats, police officials and others remain to be punished.

He did not say specifically how they should be brought to book, but declared he would give "careful consideration" to supreme Court Justice Jackson's suggestion that the four occupying powers individually hold the trials.

The President gave his views in a letter accepting the resignation of Jackson as United States prosecutor at the international military tribunal which sentenced leading Nazis.

Speaking of the recent convictions, the President told Jackson: "I am convinced that the verdict for which you worked will receive the accolade of civilized people everywhere and will stand in history as a beacon to warn international brigands of the fate that awaits them."

Revival Be Held at County Line Church

BACK ACHE DUE TO KIDNEYS?

Read This: If excess acidity of your urine makes your back ache so you groan . . . so you get up three or four times a night to pass water, now be of good cheer.

Three generations ago a famous doctor noticed that hundreds of his patients had this backache. He developed a medicine made of exactly the right amount of sixteen herbs, roots, vegetables, and balsams—truly Nature's own way to relief.

Now millions have used it. The medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Instantly you take it, it starts to work flushing out those excess acids that may be causing your backache . . . increasing the flow of urine to help ease that burning sensation when you pass water . . . and that bladder irritation that makes you get up nights. Caution: take as directed. You'll say it's really marvelous.

For free trial supply, send to Dept. U, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1255, Stamford, Conn. Or—get full-sized bottle of Swamp-Root today at your drugstore.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Both the Army and Navy are squawking privately but vigorously to President Truman over his determination to balance the budget at their expense.

Only way he can balance it is by chopping down Army-Navy expenditures. Anyone who looks over the budget sheet of the U. S. government can see that is where the big expenditures are. Most civilian agencies were cut to the bone during the war and have continued that way. The Army and Navy, however, still are padded.

Truman has already cut 2 billions from the Army and Navy, which brought howls of anguish from both. The Army maintained it needed all the $7,263,542,400 voted it by congress and the Navy said it needed all the $4,119,659,300—if they were to keep pace with Russia.

Despite their howls, however, Truman refused to budge on the two billion cut. Furthermore, although it hasn't leaked out yet, he plans to cut another billion within the next few days or weeks.

Saving Navy Dollars

Suggestion to navy admirals: It may seem like chicken feed to some people, but if you want to save a few thousand dollars, take a look at the naval air school at Olathe, Kas., commanded by one of your own Annapolis grads, Capt. W. M. Drane, naval academy '30.

Captain Drane is now tearing down three enlisted men's barracks which cost $47,500 each to construct and which were only completed May 7, 1943, in order to use the lumber for quarters for himself, plus quarters for the base's executive officer. Meanwhile, houses for veterans are stymied for lack of lumber. And meanwhile, also, Captain Drane is not too uncomfortable. He is living in the married officers' quarters consisting of 27 rooms, while the executive officer is living in the bachelor officers' quarters which consists of 13 rooms.

Another saving the Navy might make would be to sell the twelve electric refrigerators now idle at the Olathe air base. One has been loaned to Comdr. C. C. Clement for use in his private home. Veterans would be delighted to pay good money for these idle refrigerators.

Another way to save money would be to curtail the interesting flights which Captain Drane makes to Clarksville, Tenn., which happens to be his home. On one trip a twin-engine Beechcraft with Lieut. Comdr. L. B. McComber as pilot picked up his daughter and her girl friend and flew them back to Olathe, without entering either of the girls on the flight plan.

Three thousand naval personnel have been transferred away from Olathe, with only about 400 men remaining. Yet no furniture, equipment, iceboxes or buildings have been declared surplus.

All this may sound like chicken feed compared with the Navy's tremendous wartime expenditures, but when you multiply possible economy at Olathe by possible economy at a hundred other stations, it runs into real dough.

Note—Another possible saving: For a long time, Comdr. W. M. Collins, Annapolis '34, and son-in-law of Adm. Charles P. Snyder, navy inspector general, lived in Kansas City and commuted 30 miles daily to Olathe in a Dodge sedan which belonged to the Navy and was serviced daily in a Navy garage.

Tom Connally in Paris
Venerable Tom Connally, the distinguished chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, was attending a diplomatic reception at the Paris peace conference where he was introduced to the Czechoslovakian foreign minister, Jan Masaryk.

"Oh, of course, I knew your father well," Connally said, and then stepped back and began imitating a man playing a violin.

Masaryk was somewhat nonplussed.

"My dear sir," said Masaryk, "I am a Czech, not a Pole, and the father of his country whom you were thinking about was a pianist and not a violinist."

Note—Apparently Connally had confused Masaryk with Padewski the late famous Polish pianist and president of Poland.

How Truman Committee Started
Probably only three or four people know how the original Truman committee happened to be established. And since that committee was responsible for putting Harry Truman in the White House, the inside story of its founding has historic interest.

Senator Truman of Missouri was attending the inauguration of Governor Neely of West Virginia in 1940. At the inauguration, he met Senator Harley Kilgore of West Virginia, then a freshman senator. At the governor's mansion at Charleston, they talked of civil war history in which both always had been interested, including the graft which followed the civil war.

"It's too bad congress never got around to investigating the civil war graft," Truman remarked.

"As a matter of fact, it would be a good idea for congress to investigate graft in defense industries right now," said Kilgore.

After some further discussion Truman announced that he was going right back to ashington to introduce a senate resolution calling for the creation of such an investigating committee. He did so and was immediately named chairman.

Senator Kilgore at first was not named as a member of the committee since he was a freshman senator. However, due to the fact that he had helped inspire the idea, Truman wanted him to serve. Therefore, he specifically asked the president of the senate to enlarge the committee and name Kilgore.

Intriguing fact is that Kilgore, who originally inspired the committee and served on it for six years, is now its chairman.

Capital Chaff
Relations between Senator Leverett Saltonstall and Henry Ca-

bot Lodge, former senator seeking to come back to the senate, are ice cold. Both scions of Back Bay Boston families, Saltonstall is in the liberal wing of the GOP, Lodge in the Conservative.

This may help Democratic Senator Dave Walsh who badly needs it. . . . Although overshadowed by the kick in the teeth given lame-duck Senator Bert Wheeler by Montana Democrats, Montana Republicans also kicked out what are known there as "Wheeler Republicans." These include extreme isolationists such as lawyer Wellington Rankin, brother of ex-Congresswoman Jeanette Rankin. The GOP split is worse than that in Democratic ranks, which helps Democratic senatorial candidate Leif Erickson and Representative Mike Mansfield. John Holmes, running in Montana's other congressional district against Republican incumbent Wesley D' Ewart, has a tougher fight ahead but is gaining ground. . . . Holmes uses copper calling cards but explains they don't come to him with the compliments of Anaconda Copper.

Merry-Go-Round
Ilya Ehrenburg, the Moscow newsman, who after a trip to Hollywood, has been telling the Russians about our "idiotic films" is the very same gentleman who only a few years ago wrote three Russian novels lampooning the Soviet. Only difference is that Ehrenburg now works for the Soviet. He wrote the novels under a pen name. . . . Flagrant bootlegging in the bone-dry state of Kansas has caused a Republican swing to ex-Secretary of War Harry Woodring in his race for governor, despite the fact that he is a Democrat. A lot of anti-Landon Republicans are veering toward Woodring.

Glass Shattered by Wind
The front door of the Jenkins Motor Co., 218 South Osage avenue, was found blown open and the glass smashed by the police early this morning. The damage was done apparently by the wind.

No evidence of burglary was found. Case Is Dismissed
The case of the State of Missouri against James Upton for assault and battery was dismissed today in the circuit court.

Cremate Bodies of 11 Nazis

Mystery of the Poison Taking the Life of Goering Being Studied

NUERNBERG, Oct. 17.—(P)—The bodies of Hermann Goering and the 10 hanged Nazi war criminals have been cremated and the ashes "dispersed secretly," it was officially announced today.

The announcement of the disposition of the bodies was made at 5:35 p. m., by Col. R. C. Andrus, prison commandant.

He spoke in the name of the Allied Control Council, which was in charge of all details of the hangings and burial.

A six-line communique cleared up the major mystery in the wake of the hanging. The bodies were removed from the prison at 5:34 a. m. Wednesday (11:34 p. m. Tuesday, EST) in two sealed trucks, guarded by jeeps.

Place Undisclosed
Where cremation took place was not disclosed. The dispersal details were wrapped in equal secrecy.

The text of the announcement:

"The body of Hermann Goering, together with the bodies of the war criminals executed in Nuernberg on Oct. 16, 1946, in accordance with the sentences imposed by the international military tribunal, have been cremated and the ashes dispersed secretly."

"Signed, the Quadripartite Committee for the detention of war criminals."

Prison authorities disclosed that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel had planned, like Goering, to evade the gallows with suicide, but was foiled by a watchful guard.

Twelve persons are being held in an investigation on the poison Goering used in suicide.

These sources, unidentified by name, said the Germans were not under arrest but described them as being "protectively held" until they are completely cleared of all possible complicity in the eleven-hour suicide by which Goering managed to precede his ten doomed colleagues in death.

The secrecy surrounding the burial place of the one-time No. 2 Nazi and the ten who died by the noose yesterday morning remained impenetrable, although it was believed the bodies had been spirited away by plane for interment.

Rumors without confirmation circulated in the corridors of the old prison that the ringleaders of Adolf Hitler's wrecked Fascist state might have been buried at sea.

Quizzed One by One
The army board investigating the Goering suicide, meanwhile, called in, one by one, every person who conceivably might have had some connection with the pudgy reichsmarshal in his last days and nights in the death block.

In the meantime, the Allied control council's commission which conducted the executions disclosed that it had translations of the three notes Goering left in his cell but said the contents of the notes would not be divulged.

Want Price Control Lifted on Wheat, Flour

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(P)—The milling industry today called upon Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to lift price controls from wheat, flour, semolina and farina, declaring supplies are ample and that it is "unreasonable" to control these products while wheat goes uncontrolled.

The request was made at a hearing before representatives of Anderson on the industry's appeal from recent action of administrator Robert H. Shields of the department's production and marketing administration. Shields denied a decontrol petition.

Under the price control extension act, the industry can appeal to the three-man price decontrol board should the plea be denied again by Anderson. The secretary has fifteen days in which to announce his decision.

Agrees To Increase Musicians 37½ Percent

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(P)—James C. Petrillo announced today that an agreement for a 37½ percent wage increase for musicians who make recordings had been reached at negotiations with members of the industry.

No agreement has been arrived at in demands for wage boosts for musicians making electrical transcriptions. Petrillo, president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians, said.

Previously Petrillo asserted he had asked 50 percent increases for artists making recordings and transcriptions.

Conducts One-Man War Due Inflationary Meat Prices

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Oct. 17.—(P)—Marvin Sojka, a Cedar Rapids meat dealer, today was conducting a one-man war on inflationary meat prices.

Sojka, who slaughters his own meat and claims he has "plenty of it," was selling choice cuts of beef at 60 cents a pound and beef roast at 45 cents—below the former OPA ceilings.

Sojka said "I don't believe in inflation and I'm doing all I can to prevent it."

Load Markets With Livestock

Inflation Prices On Cattle Drop $1-$10 A Hundred Pounds

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(P)—Meat exploded onto the nation's livestock markets today in the largest numbers in 10 months. When the storm was over virtually all price balloons except those on top grade cattle had collapsed from $1.00 to $10.00 a hundred pounds.

Most Commodities Deflated

Most commodities likewise were deflated, including butter, eggs, poultry, wheat, corn, oats and cotton. Lard, soybeans, and flax kept out of the storm area, however, and moved to new high ground.

Some markets, such as Oklahoma City, were swamped with so many animals the yards couldn't handle them. Others of major importance were on the receiving end of miles-long lines of trucks filled with beef roasts, pork chops, and lamb steaks on the hoof.

Prices which had set new records only yesterday receded steadily almost with very new truckload, particularly on hogs and lower grade cattle.

Choice Cattle To New High

Strictly choice cattle went to a new high mark at Chicago, however, odd head going for $37.50 on load lots peaking at $36.00. The Omaha market set a new record for the third day in a row, hitting $33.00 or $2.00 better than yesterday.

The popular price at Chicago was $20.00 after an early top had been set at $23.00 and compared with yesterday's record-equaling mark of $27.50. Sheep also were off $1.00 to $1.50, topping at $26.50 in comparison with yesterday's new record of $28.00.

Other markets showed similar reactions. Buyers found difficulty in getting the rail cars to move their purchases to eastern areas.

Some Grades of Hogs Off

Some grades of hogs at the St. Louis, Mo., market were off from $1.00 to $10.00. At St. Paul, Minn., average prices were $6.50 down, and at Sioux City, Ia., as much as $4.25 less.

Meat industry spokesmen said some of the meat coming to market today could be processed and reach retail shops by next week, but estimates as to when a "normal" might be reached could not be ascertained.

The combined western markets reported estimated sales today at 135,000 head, compared with 95,500 Wednesday, 6,822 a week ago, and 19,113 a year ago. Cattle on sale totaled 96,800 today, 63,400 yesterday, 21,578 a week ago, and 35,148 a year ago, and sheep poured in to total 74,400 today, 52,300 yesterday, 47,964 a week ago, and 48,160 a year ago.

Chicago Tops All
Chicago topped all other terminals in numbers of cattle and hogs on sale, 15,000 and 20,000 respectively. In addition 15,000 more hogs came in on direct consignments to packing houses. Another 3,000 hogs held over from yesterday also were absorbed in today's trading.

In most other commodity markets throughout the country, prices were sharply lower.

Cotton futures dropped $8.80 to $10.00 a bale, the daily limit, at New York, and $9.25 to $10.00 at New Orleans. It was the second consecutive day of limit breaks, largest since start of the war.

Sen. Thomas (D-Okla.) sent telegrams to leading cotton exchanges saying he had information there was a "pending bear raid on cotton prices." Harry Shaack, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, replied, "Our exchange desires to place its facilities at your disposal" for an investigation.

Wheat Down 5 Cents

Selling overran grain futures markets. Wheat was down 5 cents a bushel, the daily limit, at Chicago and Kansas City. Oats tumbled at Minneapolis and Chicago while rye plunged as much as 6 cents a bushel at Winnipeg. Corn fell more than 3 cents at Chicago.

January wheat at Chicago closed at $2.01 1/4, corn $1.35 1/4-$1.36 and November oats 79 1/2-80 1/4 cents a bushel.

Removals of ceilings from fats and oils created a chaotic condition in butter markets. New York reported losses of 7 to 8 cents a pound with the top grade at 79 1/2 to 80 1/2 cents and Chicago had losses of 7 to 7 1/2 cents a pound. Best grades sold at 80 to 80 1/2 cents.

Live poultry at Chicago was down 2 cents following a decline yesterday.

Work Proceeds at Glass Plant

Progress on the glass factory being built by the Pittsburgh Corning Glass Company is shown in the picture which was taken from the road. Most of the work which has been done has been underground for smelting and glass furnaces. Shown in the picture are sections of the foundation. The steel work is expected to start in November. (Staff Photo.)

Bomb Melts Away Vaults

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 17.—(P)—Atomic bomb blasts which melted Japanese depositories for private fortunes have caused micro-film records of part of the private wealth of this country to be deposited in underground bank vaults in Nebraska and Kansas, Roger W. Babson, statistician and investment counselor, said here last night.

In an impromptu talk before the Tulsa Foreign Affairs club, Babson said he had sent an agent to appraise damage done to personal wealth of Hiroshima and Nagasaki business men, "which concern is my business."

The economist said the blasts' terrific heat had melted above-ground vaults, boxes and papers. Babson said his business institute had advised clients to make film record of valuable papers and deposit them underground, and that he himself was building a depository at Eureka, Kas.

His visit here was for an inspection of underground deposit facilities.

Erratic Trend On the Markets

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(P)—All commodity markets today experienced extremely nervous trading, with prices fluctuating widely, in the wake of overnight regulations removing fats and oils from ceiling controls.

Featuring chaotic markets throughout the nation were heavy receipts of livestock, plunging butter prices, sharp mark-downs in the price of cash corn, soaring quotations for soybeans and lard, and erratically lower cotton markets.

While trading was still in progress, the agriculture department announced removal of restrictions on the use of fed grains and Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) sent telegrams to cotton exchanges saying he had information there was a "pending bear raid on cotton prices."

Farmers poured livestock into major terminals and prices were sharply lower on hogs and slightly lower on cattle despite the fact that a new all-time record was established at Chicago for a few cattle at $37.50 a hundred pounds.

Hog prices at Chicago were down $2.00 to $7.00 a hundred pounds. St. Louis reported prices down $5.00 to $6.00, Omaha losses averaged around $4.00 to $5.00, Indianapolis declines were around $2.00. Everywhere, pens were jammed and traders had difficulty in establishing prices.

Butter markets were overwhelmed with offerings which traders attributed to removal of ceilings on fats and oils, competitive prices. At New York butter tumbled 7 to 8 cents a pound from record high levels. The top grade sold at 79 1/2 to 80 1/4 cents a pound.

Storage Battery Shortage Serious

DETROIT, Oct. 17.—(P)—The shortage of electrical storage batteries probably will become more critical during the coming winter than it has been at any time in the automobile industry's history.

There may be enough batteries for the restricted number of new cars and trucks that will be produced during the next two or three months, but they will be made available at the expense of an already inadequate output of batteries for replacement purposes.

Unless there is a quick easing of the battery situation thousands of motor vehicles will be made idle this winter.

These are the views expressed in authoritative sources of both the automobile and the battery industries.

The battery shortage stems from prolonged scarcity of lead. The metal also is needed for bearings and solder, insofar as the automobile industry alone is concerned.

Tiger 'Bees' Play Here Tonight

The University of Missouri "B" team, undefeated in five starts, will be gunning for their sixth straight at Sedalia Friday night, October 18th. The Junior Bengals will be opposed by the Kansas State Wildcat reserves. The game starts at 7:30 p. m. at Liberty Park.

The Bengal Bees are in hopes of repeating the varsity's performance against the Wildcats last Saturday. The Tigers steam-rolled over the Kansas 26-0 at Manhattan.

Missouri will be pinning their hopes on Clarence "Dutch" Wyatt of Charleston, Mo., shifty quarterback, and Dick Keller of St. Louis, whose line-smashing drives opened the Oklahoma "B" team line last Saturday at Joplin. Keller scored the only Tiger touchdown from the 11 yard line, but this proved enough for the strong Missouri forward wall. He also added the extra point, and the Tigers won 7-0 before 3,000 shivering fans in near freezing weather.

"Dutch" Wyatt has been the spark-plug of all the five previous "B" games and has been a consistent ground-gainer. The Junior Bengals will miss the services of Bob Teal and Bill Day, halfbacks. They played so well at Manhattan with the Varsity that Coach Don Faurot has lifted them from the "B" team roster to the Varsity traveling squad.

The Tiger reserves are in good physical condition after the hard-fought Oklahoma tussle and will be in top shape in every department. In every game to date the Bees have made a good account of themselves, and they will enter the game at Sedalia slightly-favored.

1945 Draftees Out By January 1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(P)—Flooded with volunteers, the army today ordered the discharge by January 1 of all remaining soldiers who were drafted in 1945.

The announced aim of this and other orders is to top off a fourth year of the army's existing strength by the year's end.

The new directives included instructions by the air forces to discharge some 8,700 men, and army officers still on active duty in addition to those quitting active service voluntarily.

Revising previous estimates in the light of the recent upsurge in volunteer enlistments, officials disclosed that 435,000 ground and air officers and enlisted men must be returned to civil life to keep within the payroll authorized by congress.

Loot Dutchess Of Windsor's $1,000,000 Jewell Collection

By GLENN WILLIAMS
LONDON, Oct. 17.—(P)—London police combed night clubs tonight for a trace of expert thieves who climbed a drainpipe into the Dutchess of Windsor's country apartment, looted a "considerable portion" of her glittering $1,000,000 Jewell collection and left part of it scattered on a nearby golf course.

A friend of the Duke of Windsor and his American-born wife said from $80,000 to $100,000 worth of rich gems were taken late yesterday from the second story boudoir at Ednam Lodge where the dual couple were guests of the Bankers and International Industrialist, Earl of Dudley.

Jewels Are Insured
Exchange Telegraph agency said, however, it understood the value of the stolen gems was $800,000 and that $120,000 had been recovered. The Duke's friend said all the stolen jewels were insured.

Detectives announcing the recovery of a "certain amount" of the rich haul, said the loot was found in a gladstone bag on the Earl's golf course overlooked by the Dutchess' boudoir window.

Other pieces of the sparkling array were scattered in the glass, the detectives said.

While Scotland's Yard's sleuths began a checkup of all known upper crust criminals in England who might have participated in the daring raid on the former king of England's apartment, the detectives cleared up one point of mystery in the case.

They said the thief or thieves had climbed a drain pipe and entered the Dutchess' room by a window. Previously there had been speculation that a present-able thief might have walked right in the front door under the noses of a special detachment of Scotland yard men detailed to guard the premises since the Duke and his wife arrived at the estate near London last Friday.

The detectives also said a large automobile with a number of men inside had been seen in recent nights near the Earl's Sunningdale Estate where the dual couple are staying.

Her Entire Collection

That the thief or thieves were looking for a large take was indicated by the report that the Dutchess had brought her entire $1,000,000 collection with her when she came from France. She was said, however, to have put some of it in a safety deposit box.

Tonight the first detailed account came from an unidentified friend of the former king who was quoted by the press association.

This friend said the robbery

No Evidence On Lost Fliers

By John Roderick
SICHANG, China, Oct. 15.—(Delayed)—(P)—A U. S. army search party returned today from the wilds of China's far west without evidence that any lost American fliers have been enslaved by the fierce Lolo tribesmen.

They brought back the bones of one American crew member who perished in the crash of a Superfortress in March of 1945. The remains of three others were recovered by the Chinese mission.

The remaining six of the crew may have parachuted into the dense jungle and been captured by the Lolo warriors, but this is speculation and there is as yet no evidence to back it up. The American graves registration party, accompanied by Associated Press Photographer Julian Wilson, scaled 14,400-foot Liangpoashan in the Wutai mountain range and looked at a portion of the wreckage.

They were the first known white men ever to climb the treacherous peak, and the whole trek into the wilds required a week.

Lt. Col. Herbert Wurtzler, Capt. Edward L. McAllister and Wilson climbed the peak and found the bones of one crew member.

"We are investigating these crashes to determine the truth or falsity of reports Americans are held by the Lolos," Wurtzler told the Associated Press.

"There have been five crashes in this vicinity that we know of, some in remote areas."

Wurtzler already is making plans to go to another B-29 wreck to try to gather additional data. All indications are it will take weeks to track down rumors, more weeks if they are true and negotiations are completed for captive Americans' release.

Divorce Evidence Puzzles A Judge

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—(P)—Judge Michael J. Manley, hearing a divorce action today expressed amazement at modern manners.

One of the exhibits in the case was a letter written by the 20-year-old wife telling her husband, Thomas W. Hale, now a soldier, that she could never get along and that she wanted a divorce.

What amazed the judge was that, in the letter she addressed Hale as "Honey," and finished up with "Love," and a row of X's.

Transport Plane Crash Kills Thirteen

Attempted Landing In Snow Storm Near Laramie, Wyo.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 17.—(P)—Unexplained tragedy struck a twin-engine transport plane during a heavy snowstorm west of Laramie early today and the craft plunged into the treeless prairie, killing all ten passengers and a crew of three.

Among the victims were the pilot of the DC-3, Calence Robert Abernathy, 27, of San Lorenzo, Calif., formerly of Crystal City, Mo., and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Boland of Toronto, Canada. Mrs. Boland was en route home after visiting her daughter and son-in-law following the birth of a child to the couple two months ago.

Identify The Dead
The other dead were identified from an airline passenger list issued at Oakland as:

Harry Holle, San Francisco, copilot.

Dorothy Hartman, Oakland, stewardess.

R. J. Pettigrew, Elizabeth, N. J. R. A. Gregor, Somerville, Mass. Steven A. Smith, Springfield, Ill.

J. W. Trogon, Spartanburg, S. C. A. Gunza, East Paterson, N. J. Ray A. Butler, Marlboro, Mass. H. Whidden, Kennett, Mo. Mrs. H. E. Thompson, Falls City, Neb., and June Thompson, Falls City, Neb., her daughter.

Gregor and Trogon survived until they were brought to a Laramie hospital.

Several Are Sailors
Acting coroner E. L. Knight said several of the seven men passengers were sailors.

Abernathy, a former lieutenant commander in the navy air transport service, was treasurer of the "NATS Air Transport Service," a postwar commercial line organized by a group of former navy pilots. The line carries passengers and freight on a charter basis between Oakland and Newark N. J.

The NATS plane which crashed three miles west of here at about 1 a. m. (MST) was bound for Chicago and was to have stopped at Cheyenne to refuel and change crews. Officials of the civil aeronautics administration at Cheyenne said the weather was unfavorable there at midnight and that a routine report was given the pilot, but that he was not ordered to land at Laramie, where no stop was scheduled.

An inquiry at the scene was begun by the CAB.

The plane was twisted to pieces after plowing 300 yards across the snow-covered earth and Knight said some bodies were thrown 75 yards from the smashed cabin.

Oil Field Worker Reports It
First report of the crash came from Paul Fletcher, 35, oil well driller from Chickasha, Okla., employed at an oil field west of here, who was on his way home with four companions.

Fletcher said he had stopped near the Laramie airport to clean snow from his windshield and heard the plane.

"It sounded like it was in trouble because the motors seemed to be running irregularly," Fletcher said.

He said the plane circled over the airport but the men could not see the craft as it circled overhead because of the snow.

"A few seconds later we heard a loud crash," Fletcher said.

The oil field workers drove slowly along the highway toward Laramie and stopped frequently in hope of hearing further sounds from the direction of the crash.

He said he definitely does not consider the Paris conference a "failure." This view was expressed by Vandenberg who asserted that while there were "peace credits and peace debits" the net balance represented a gain for the drive to restore peace to Europe.

General Carl Spaatz, army air force commander, presented medals to Colonel Clarence S. Irvine, skipper of the super fortress and the eight AAF men and one civilian who flew the airplane non-stop approximately 9,500 miles from Honolulu across the Arctic and down to Cairo, Egypt.

The Pacusan Dream Boat came to Washington today after a trans-Atlantic crossing completed at Westover Field, Mass., yesterday. It was the second time Irvine and the Pacusan Dreamboat had visited the capital. The first occasion was a 7,929-mile non-stop flight from Guam to Washington last November.

Five Injured In Wreck on Highway 65

Prosecuting Attorney Exonerates Car Drivers of Blame

Five persons were injured Sunday morning at approximately 9:20 o'clock one mile north of the Cole Camp junction on Highway 65, as the result of a head-on collision of two automobiles.

A 1936 Ford, driven by Perry McCandless, Lincoln, was going south on the highway, when as he stated the other car, a 1941 Buick, driven by Harold F. Boehner, York, Neb., pulled out of the line of oncoming traffic and both cars struck head on.

Boehner was driving behind another car and a truck. The truck slowed down to make a left-hand turn. The other car in front of him slowed down also and Doehner applied the brakes. Investigation by Pete Stohr, state trooper, revealed that the left front wheel brake on Boehner's car had locked when he applied the brakes and had forced the car out into the line of traffic coming from the opposite way.

No charges were filed, as the prosecuting attorney stated that the accident was the fault of neither driver.

Five Injured

All five persons riding in the McCandless automobile were injured. Perry McCandless, the driver, sustained a broken wrist. Merlin McCandless, 1457 South Sneed avenue, brother of the driver, had several ribs broken and suffered possibly dangerous internal injuries. Mrs. Merlin McCandless had extensive lacerations of the forehead and scalp. Don and Robert, sons of Merlin McCandless, received cuts and bruises. The McCandless automobile belonged to Robert.

Mrs. Helen Boehner, wife of the driver of the other car, received a bump on her forehead. Mr. Boehner was not injured.

To Bothwell hospital

The McCandless family was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the John F. Reser ambulance from Warsaw, where they were treated by Dr. A. L. Walter and Dr. D. R. Edwards.

All were dismissed later except Merlin McCandless, his wife and one son, Robert. Dr. Walter said that although Mr. McCandless' condition appeared critical Sunday night, it had improved considerably Monday morning. The conditions of his wife and son were also much better.

The McCandless family were on their way to Lincoln to attend a family reunion of relatives whom they had not seen for six years when the accident occurred.

Farm-Home Week Oct. 29-31 At Columbia

Three Big Meetings By Top-Notch Farm Experts

Farm and Home Week at Columbia, October 29 to 31, is likely to be the largest gathering of farm people the University of Missouri College of Agriculture since prewar days, believes Dean E. A. Trowbridge.

"We have three of the best speakers in the country to lead the general discussions," states the Dean. "And they are going to talk about the things that our people are most interested in just now. These speakers are: Howard E. Babcock, New York State farmer and general manager of the country's largest farm cooperative; L. J. Fletcher, vice-president and farm-front man of the Caterpillar Tractor Company of Peoria, Ill.; and O. V. Wells, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington, D. C."

"These men will try to answer questions about the things that are in store for the American farmer in the days ahead. And, I suspect they come as near getting the job done as any three men in the United States."

These three men will handle the three big meetings at which Farm and Home Week visitors will meet under one roof from 1:30 to 2:30 daily.

Programs In Groups

Daily programs will be divided into four groups. For women there will be a full forenoon program on the farm home and family each day. The men have three choices. One group will hear speakers on livestock farming. Another on dairy farming. Another will hear the latest reports on fruit and vegetable production.

After 2:30 in the afternoon, each day visitors can attend meetings of their own state organizations or visit their friends in the departments of the College of Agriculture. Each of the departments will hold open house and will arrange programs to suit the farm people who work with them.

Usually not fewer than a dozen state organizations, representing most of the specialized phases of farming, hold their annual meetings at Farm and Home Week. Some of these will arrange banquets followed by business meetings.

To all of these meetings the farm people of Missouri are cordially invited. Places to stay over night will be hard to find in Columbia this fall—with record enrollments at the University and colleges—yet many will arrange in advance to stay with friends. Some rooms already have been reserved for visitors.

No night meetings are being scheduled by the University or the College of Agriculture during Farm and Home Week. Yet places will be provided for all evening and night meetings that the farm people themselves wish to hold.

Most Missouri counties will be represented and the county extension agents in all counties will be glad to answer inquiries of persons or groups desiring to attend.

Push a Button . . .

Visualize fields being plowed while farmers loil at ease beneath shady trees, juzs of cider beside them, pipes or cigarettes in one hand, and electric push-buttons, like that pictured at right, in the other. That's the promise seen in recent English experiments with radio-controlled farm tractors that pull plows and other cultivating machinery at the press of a button. Radio-controlled apparatus, used in wartime for robot air-craft target planes, has been adapted to the tractor. Radio signals from transmitter operate sensitive electrical relays in the receiver, installed on tractor, so that by means of compressed air servomotors, the tractor can be made to run in a straight line or turn right and left. Plow can be raised when tractor turns at end of a furrow. Photos here were taken during recent experiments at Barnet, in Hertfordshire.

Talk Business Facts For The Farm Women

In her discussion with leaders of Home Economics Extension Clubs on "Business Facts for Farm Women," Miss Julia Rocheford, Extension Economist, College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo., pointed out that it isn't the amount of money earned, but the management or earnings that counts in saving. Making a choice between what one really needs and what one only desires is one of the great factors in money management.

Miss Rocheford further states that financial independence with its resulting feeling of security, is within the reach of any one who has the will power to forego the pleasure of buying and possessing something not really needed, but desired. One should not only plan to save by this denial, but to invest his savings wisely.

Questions on "Who may make a will?—How should a will be made to lessen the chances of a contest? How may a will be revoked? If no will provides for disposal of property, to whom does it descend?" and others of similar nature were answered and discussed.

Leaders Attending

The following leaders attended the meeting: Mrs. Vest Elliott, Mrs. Kurman Riley, Mrs. Raymond LaRue, Mrs. Jesse Wear, Mrs. C. E. Carroll, Mrs. C. B. Elliott, Mrs. C. W. Carroll, Mrs. J. J. ## Best Method On Root Crops

Root crops in the right eating stage, with the exception of Irish potatoes, and onions, should be left in the ground as late as possible without danger of freezing. By thus delaying storage until cool weather, vegetables may be in better condition and the lower temperature of the storage place will make conditions more ideal for preservation. Allow the vegetables to stand out of doors over night to cool and then put them in storage early in the morning. In every instance, except with parsnips and salsify, vegetables should be harvested before the first freeze.

Sanitation of the storage room or house is good storage in short. Avoid storing products in places which are overrun with rat droppings. The storage place should be thoroughly cleaned and ventilated before putting the products in for winter. A satisfactory disinfectant solution can be made by adding one pint of formaldehyde to six gallons of water, or one pound of copper sulphate to ten gallons of water. Either of these solutions may be used for disinfecting boxes or crates and the inside of the storage structure.

Business Men On Balanced Farm Tour

Score Took It On Friday, October 4 To See Progress

The twenty business men and members of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce who attended the Balanced Farm Planning tour Friday afternoon, October 4th, had opportunity to see first hand some of the progress and improvement that had been made during the year on these farms.

The first farm visited was the Marvin Goodwin dairy farm, north east of Sedalia. On this farm part of the waterway for the water management program have been built, seeded and have a good stand of grass on them. The water management system, field arrangement and crop rotation were explained and discussed. Some of the improvements at the homestead included changes of the drive so as to enter at the front and make it possible to have a two area run for the laying flock which can be alternated for the growing of vegetables. Later the milking parlor will be remodeled and a new milk house built. The group was interested in the egg cooler the Goodwins built in their bement this spring so they could sell eggs of highest quality.

One of the fields on this farm was sowed in barley September 5th and the fall pigs, consisting of 5 litters with 37 pigs, was on this field. This barley field is serving two purposes, one furnishing an abundance of nutritious green feed and two clean ground free of parasites which is one of the essentials for growing young stock.

At the William J. Lamm farm the group saw the permanent pastures on which different analysis commercial fertilizer was applied last spring and the results obtained. In some cases the yield of dry forage was nearly doubled.

Water Management

On the Steve McClure farm, again the group had an opportunity to see the planned system of water management with most of the waterways partially completed as well as a change in field arrangement to get fields of equal size to carry out a good crop rotation. That way ample feed can be provided one year after another for the dairy herd and the hogs on his farm. The water management plan on this farm includes the use of two good farm ponds so that the livestock can be watered from practically every field on the farm.

Of special interest was the field of rye on this farm. This particular field, which had produced a Red Clover hay crop earlier in the year, was plowed, seed bed prepared and seeded to Balboa Rye the first of September. On the day of the tour the cows were grazing this field and had an abundance of pasture with the rye being 6 to 8 inches high. Naturally the rye had to make a rapid growth. Mr. McClure is a strong believer in the use of fertilizer. He used 240 pounds of 2-12-6 per acre and on part of the field put on an equal amount of 20 per cent super phosphate in addition to the complete fertilizer. This field of rye should provide all the pasture needed for the dairy herd until the ground freezes.

At the beginning of the tour J. U. Morris and Merle Vaughn, Extension Agents, discussed the Balanced Farming program in general as it is being carried out in the county and gave each member on the tour a revised plan of each of the farms visited. The Extension Service and the farm people of Pettis county are very appreciative of the interest that the business men of Sedalia have in this project and cooperation in carrying it out this year.

Those in attendance on the tour were: Arnold Fischer, L. Sibert, Ellsworth Green, Thomas P. Hogan, Phil R. Burford, John F. Williams, J. R. M. Overstreet, A. H. Wilks, J. H. Green, John C. Ryan, D. M. Overstreet, Roy C. Woods, Marvin Goodwin, William J. Lamm and Steve McClure.

Nolan Twyman 17, Fatally Hurt Saturday

Was Passenger In Car That Skidded
And Turned Over

Harry Nolan Twyman, Jr., 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Twyman, Sr. R. F. D. No. 1, six miles south of Sedalia, was instantly killed about 7 o'clock Saturday morning, when the car in which he was riding as a passenger driven by Orville Kincaid, 18, 1323 East Fourth street, overturned on the Ingram-Water Works blacktop road, about a mile south of Flat Creek bridge.

Kincaid stayed at the home of Twyman Friday night and they were enroute to Sedalia to go to work, Twyman at the Calvert Coal Co., and Kincaid with the Central News Agency. The boys had left the Twyman home about 6:45 o'clock, according to Twyman's parents, and were about two miles from the home when the accident occurred.

It happened on the curve near the old G. E. Heck farm. They had already made one corner, just west, and were starting around the second curve when the car skidded sideways. Twyman, it appeared, was thrown out of the car and it rolled over and crushed his head. Kincaid, was not seriously injured but suffered from shock and a cut lip and mouth.

Letter-Writing Week, Oct. 13-19

National Letter-Writing Week has become an annual event and will be observed October 13th to 19th this year, says Postmaster Edward P. Mullahey.

Everyone likes to receive a letter, but not everyone likes to write a letter. It's only a few steps to a letter box. Write a letter to your mother or father, to your sister, brother, sweetheart, loved ones. Write them a letter and give them the thrill you had when you received a letter from them.

Yes, someone is waiting for your letter. The welcome words, an acknowledgment of some request, a chatty report on the inconsequential but delightful things you like to talk about, that note of praise or a bit of information—all of these are yours to give at a little effort and expense in a letter.

We've all heard the time-worn apologies for failure to write. How often do we really have a good excuse? Generally, this disinclination to write a letter arises from our lack of realization of how much letters mean to others.

A letter is your best emissary. It is a created thing. You select its contents—news which, by its very personal nature, is exclusive. With a powerful disregard for literary laws you can make your letter a powerful bond. Certainly it should represent you and be worthy of you, but if you write as you would talk, your letter will

Missouri Trappers Lead the Nation

Missouri trappers and hunters contributed more than many states to the nation's fur supply last year, a report of the fish and wildlife service discloses.

The number of fur bearing animals caught and reported during the year totaled 573,141. This was larger than Illinois' 426,582, Kansas' 436,265, and Arkansas' 198,712 but smaller than Iowa's take of 624,565 animals. Louisiana led the nation with 8,669,609.

Due primarily to the war and lack of ammunition and traps, the 1945 catch was far below that of 834,571 animals in 1941 and 818,165 in 1940.

The fish and wildlife service predicted, however, that more trappers and hunters will take to the field this season because traps and ammunition are more plentiful than at any time since World War Two began.

Opossums led the Missouri catch last year with 261,359 animals followed by 173,347 muskrats, 61,674 skunks, 38,106 racoons, 26,563 foxes, 11,156 minks, and 936 weasels.

Santa Claus Making Toys That Look And Work Like Real

By Oliver W. DeWolfe

Hey Kiddies! Guess what Santa Claus is bringing this Christmas! For good little girls, he's going to have some new dolls which can laugh, as well as cry or go to sleep. And there will be toy irons and cook stoves that run on real electric current, just like mother's, and an enameled sink with running water.

And of course there will be lots of games, blackboards, doll houses and things.

Some lucky boys will get mechanical shovels which lift real dirt, and trucks, road scrapers, earth haulers and concrete mixers built to scale. There also will be workable telephone sets, and new stream-lined trains, velocipedes and airplanes.

Santa passed the information along to the commerce department today, saying he is doing more this year than ever before to give the children toys that look and work like the real thing. He also has a lot of toys which help to teach children to use their minds and hands.

At the same time he urged parents to help him by "shopping early" because "it is just possible that there may not be quite enough of the more popular toys to go around."

For the information of grown-ups interested in such matters, Santa's toy business this year shows signs of being in excess of $240,000,000 in retail value, about a 30 per cent increase over last year. Most of the toys will be of American make and of good quality.

Teen Town Notes

The drive for funds received a boost the past week upon receiving a $100.00 check from the Sedalia City Council, headed by Mayor Bagby. This is the same amount that was received from the City Council last year, and is very much appreciated. The students have shown considerable interest in the names and amounts of those who have contributed to the support of Teen Town. These names are posted on the Teen Town Bulletin Board, and the names are added from time to time as the various workers report. On Friday the drive had received $1523.80 with an additional $135.00 in pledges. Four solicitors of the 40 working on the drive have still to make their report. Most of them are trying to complete their call backs before turning in their reports.

Last week letters were mailed to those who had been out when the solicitors called and good results are being reported, some are mailing in their contributions and others are calling for workers to stop by to pick up their checks.

Students of Smith-Cotton and Sacred Heart will work this week in contacting the parents of teenagers who were not contacted by workers in the business district. Contributions for the most part have been generous and the persons contacted were interested.

PTA Help

The Smith-Cotton High School P. T. A. pledged their usual $50.00 to Teen Town at the first meeting in October, under the leadership of E. L. Ellsworth president of the P. T. A. units in the city contribute smaller amounts each spring or fall from $5.00 to $20.00.

William Ilgenfritz, owner of the building, is the only monthly contributor. Mr. Ilgenfritz gives $5.00 each month to the club. It is believed if the parents will send in from $1.00 to $5.00 the goal of $2400 will be over subscribed by the weekend. However the parents who have already sent their contributions are not expected to send in again. Several who have given small amounts, not realizing that the drive was for, after reading and hearing more about it, sent in additional donations. The T. E. B. W. local 844 at the Missouri Pacific Shops, expressed interest by giving Mr. Ellsworth their check for $5.00 for the drive.

Mr. Ellsworth is a member of the Teen Town Adult Board. The Temple Beth El Sisterhood gave a check for $10.00 to Mrs. Sam Raskin to turn in on the drive.

Break Ground For New Building

Top: Personnel of the Midwest Auto Stores in Sedalia see the first shovel of dirt removed for construction of a new warehouse and office building for the company, at Sixth street and Hancock avenue. The picture was taken Thursday. In the group, left to right, are: Fred W. Brink, secretary and treasurer; Harriet Turley, stock inventory; Gayl Ryan, bookkeeper; E. L. Work was started Thursday, clearing ground at Sixth street and Hancock avenue for a new warehouse and office for Midwest Auto Stores, to replace their present operation in the three story building owned by them at 321 East Main street, which they have outgrown. Paul F. Hausman, the president and general manager, turned the first shovel for the new building as the various warehouse and office executives and employees looked on.

The new building is to be constructed of haydite blocks with brick exterior, and in keeping with the company's plan to streamline their operation, it will be a one-story building tailored to the needs of modern warehousing. Floor area of 20,000 square feet will be available in the new building compared to 7,200 square feet in their old location. All operations will be on the ground level thereby eliminating elevators, and loading docks will be at truck bed height which will save much heavy lifting. The company's own trailer will have an inside loading dock half way back on the north side of the building. The new building will be well lighted as it will have about 80 windows and fluorescent lights throughout.

Cremate Bodies Of 11 Nazis

One of the notes was addressed to the prison commandant and there was immediate speculation that Goering might have told how he got the poison and how he concealed it—his last grim joke.

Col. B. C. Andrus, prison commandant, insisted that he believed his own personnel innocent of any wrongdoing. He said bitterly that a German attorney, perhaps in the last days of the trial, may have given Goering the poison vial that enabled him to take his own life.

In this, however, he was in conflict with his assistant, Major Fred Teich, who said he was convinced that Goering had found some way to conceal the vial and might have had it in his possession ever since his incarceration after the war ended.

Has All Jewels

Teich also sought to explode a circulating theory that one of the prison guards traded Goering the poison for one of the marshal's gems. Teich said he had all the jewels safe in the prison strong-box.

News of Goering's suicide and of the execution of the other ten men raced swiftly through the prison to the seven defendants who escaped with prison terms, to be served eventually in Spandau jail, Berlin. A guard said they received the news non-committally, but gave the impression that they were pleased Goering had escaped the rope.

These men, including Rudolf Hess, are to be transferred to Spandau sometime next month, prison reports said.

Blame For Delay

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—(P)—Editorials in the British press which blamed U. S. authorities for delay in announcing the execution of the Nazi war criminals and Hermann Goering's suicide drew a sharp rejoinder today from American military government public relations officers.

They said arrangements for carrying out the executions and news coverage of the hangings was a four-power responsibility executed by a quadripartite commission appointed by the Allied control council.

They added that charges that a "gag" was imposed upon the press "comes with ill grace from the British, because their representative in the control council, along with the French representative, wanted to restrict press and picture coverage of the executions to a minimum."

(A Daily Express correspondent termed the long delay in announcing Goering's suicide almost eight hours—the "worst hush-hush ban yet.")

An American officer who attends control council sessions said the American representative, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, had led the fight to give the world press access to the executions and that in this effort he had the support of the Russians.

To Death Without Communion
NEURNBERG, Oct. 17.—(P)—Hermann Goering went to his death without communion, though he had requested it from the prison chaplain the day before, prison officials said today.

Capt. H. F. Geeneke, of St. Louis, prestant chaplain of the jail, refused to give Goering communion because the arrogant ex-Reichsmarshal was not repentant. In view of his attitude over many months, would have been sacrilegious, the chaplain told Goering.

Mrs. Goering Makes Statement
PARIS, Oct. 17.—(P)—In an interview published today by the newspaper "resistance," Mrs. Emmy Goering declared herself innocent of any connection with her husband's poison suicide.

The newspaper's Neurnberg correspondent, Georges Martin, said Mrs. Goering tearfully asserted she could not even be suspected of slipping the fatal vial because she was always so closely watched during her visits at the prison. "I am surprised that I can be suspected," Martin quoted Mrs. Goering as saying. "I was always so closely watched that I could not even put by little finger through the grill."

Mrs. Goering's landlady, Martin continued, said the widow was convinced one of Goering's American "friends" had given him the poison.

took place at dusk Wednesday while the Duke and Duchess were on their way home from London where the Duke paid a solitary call on his brother, King George, at Buckingham Palace.

Servants At Tea

"The servants were at tea and no one heard anything," the friend said. "The Duke's dog which was in the house did not bark."

"It was the Duchess' maid who discovered the loss when she went to the Duchess' room prior to her return home."

"Of course the Duke and Duchess were told immediately when they reached home."

The friend said the Duke, after a hectic search of the house, called police. The friend added that a full list of the missing jewels had been prepared and put in the hands of assessors.

The friend added that the robbery appeared to have been "carefully planned" and that a mist added the getaway. It gets dark at 5 p. m. in London at this time of year.

Among the Duchess' jewels was a gift from the Duke, a diamond studded platinum tiara which she wore on her wedding day, and complete sets of such dazblers as blue sapphires, diamonds, rubies and emeralds.
